

Foundation

A legal form of a non-governmental organization, the essential substrate of which is capital intended for a specific purpose and a statute containing the rules for disposing of this capital. A foundation is an establishment, i.e. a legal person of the company type, which means that it is impersonal, it has no members. This makes it independent. The purpose, property, and method of action are decided by its creator.